

JUST IN TIME

Pause for a moment. And think of the multiple choices you have in everything. More cars, more holiday destinations, more varieties of cuisine, ...even more marriages! But wait a minute. Did you find time just now to pause? No? We live in an age where we are spoilt for choice. There are too many things to do, so much to be experienced, but so little time.

Right now time is more precious than diamonds, real estate and blue-chip share certificates. Everything else is in excess, but time is limited. Drinking to the very dregs from the glass of time is today's number one desire.

We present to you a portal that recognizes this desire and offers timely advantages and opportunities to the world of media, advertising and communication. Presenting lastminuteinventory.com.

The portal that will use time in a breathtaking and exciting new way. It has the potential to transform for ever the manner in which media is bought and sold. Giving the time-media equation a dynamic new dimension.

lastminuteinventory.com is the world's first across-media, on-line, real-time media exchange. The site is dedicated to trading and making inventory available to Advertisers and Agencies till the very last minute. It will spring up never before opportunities for trade with geographically dispersed media owners and buyers.

This why-did-I-not-think-of-the-idea-before has been ideated, conceptualized and actualized by Dentsu India. With knowledge and inputs from a corporation that has ahem! ... always been ahead of its time! Dentsu Inc., Japan, the world's single largest ad-agency since 1960. There are small but significant equity investments from some of India's leading media groups. However, lastminuteinventory.com is owned and run by Last Minute Media Private Limited, which will operate as an independent corporate identity. (Read, no-time-for-interference-from-equity-owners.)

This is a job for Evangelists

We are not looking for people who will just work with us. We are seeking co-founders. And like the Evangelists of biblical times who single-mindedly spread the gospel, we are looking for minds who will train, teach and find new uses for lastminuteinventory.com. Ignited souls who will own the concept. Constantly develop it, add to it, and find new directions and uses for it. We are looking for gurus (candidates without white beards and long robes are also welcome) who will spread an exciting new media religion like wildfire. The startup years will be the most exciting and demanding. You could be just in time for the task of your life.

Our Evangelists would preferably be post graduates in management/statistics/sociology/economics from a premier institution. A 1 to 5 years' spell in an organization of repute is desired. However, like mentioned above, what is of paramount importance is a burning desire to be part of a startling new concept in the digital plus media space. And to contribute to the formation of an idea that will stretch every minute in unheard of directions. You will be based in either Mumbai or Delhi and will be well rewarded for your efforts.

After all, we are in the business of respecting each other's time. Until the very last minute. Mail in your applications to bryan.nazareth@lastminuteinventory.in or call him on +91 9820701727.

lastminuteinventory.com