

"The true wealth of a nation consists not in the stored-

C.V. Raman

Physicist 1888-1970

Q: How did C.V. Raman begin his career?

A: In the finance department as an assistant accountant general in Calcutta in 1906

Q: His Nobel Prize win gave him which other distinction?

A: It made him the first Asian to win the Nobel for physics

Q: Which book influenced Raman the most?

A: Edwin Arnold's The Light of Asia

Q: What was unique about Raman's stint at the Royal Society of London?

A: He is the only Indian who resigned from its fellowship

Q: What is a lesser known field of Raman's work?

A: He also worked on the acoustics of musical instruments

