

Hindustan Unilever: Back on Track

business today
for managing tomorrow

April 6, 2008 Rs. 15/-

India's Coffee Barons
Coffee Day's V.G. Siddhartha and others are cashing in on the "bean" boom.

BT Money
Best mutual funds you can buy—today

Food Inflation
A special report on soaring food prices, and what that means.

PLUS:

- Q&A: Coke's Neville Isdell
- Farm Loan Waivers for Whom?
- UB Under Attack

New CEO, New HUL
Hindustan Unilever is on a roll again. But that doesn't make new CEO Nitin Paranjpe's mandate—to pump up HUL's mojo in highly competitive markets—any easier.

ON SALE NOW! GRAB YOUR COPY TODAY!

After years in the doldrums, the sheen is back on HUL. Both top and bottom lines are growing at a healthy clip, it is maintaining its leadership in a bitterly competitive market, and its share price has been stable. Now, new CEO Nitin Paranjpe has to ensure that this lustre gets brighter in the years ahead.

Plus: Will Finance Minister P. Chidambaram's Rs 60,000-crore farm loan waiver package really help distressed farmers in Vadarbha and Andhra Pradesh? • A slew of foreign beer brands are threatening to break UB's vice-like grip on the Indian beer market • India's New Coffee Barons • Where is the Sensex headed? • Special: End of Cheap Food?

Find the Coolest Summer Styles in BT More.
Available only in Delhi, Mumbai, Chennai, Bangalore and Kolkata.

