

ns

With over 190 films and a box-office revenue of Rs 4,500 crore between them, the three actors speak on why they constantly court controversy

LION KING WITH HIS CUBS: Amitabh with Abhishek and Aishwarya

PHOTOGRAPH BY ANSHU KATHI, MUMBAI

second home, Janak, far away from the din of Raj Thackeray's mob demanding Amitabh's departure from Mumbai, rumours of rivalry with the Khans and daily boomerangs at an increasingly irascible media. They've all had a full day. Amitabh has come straight from a shower, after shooting for a new Shoojit Sarcar film, Shoebite, at Film City since 7 a.m. Abhishek has just spent an hour at his personal gym at Janak, having left at 5 a.m. for the shoot of his film, Rakeysh Om Prakash Mehra's Dilli 6 at Madh Island near Mumbai. Aishwarya has a long day ahead of her—she has to put in an appearance at the 100-day celebration of her recent film, Jodhaa-Akbar, where her parents are waiting for her, and then at Karan Johar's 36th birthday celebrations. Oh, and yes, it's already 12.30 at night.

A cumulative box-office revenue of Rs 4,500 crore between the three of them, 191 films, and 33 brands later, the Bachchans are getting ready for the release of their first film together, the Rs 30-crore Sarkar Raj, the further adventures of Subhash Nagre and his son, Shankar. After that, they will be off on Wizcraft's Rs 120 crore, 23-city, six continent world tour where they will be performing to various songs, with choreography by Shiamak Davar and music by Vishal-Shekhar. It begins on July 18 at Toronto and is expected to end in December with enough breaks for them to complete