

■ Institute of Productivity & Management –

Quintessentially, IPM is a small B-school by today's standards in terms of numbers but the institute makes it up by sheer value as borne by the last 30 years of its' existence. IPM focus is on quality be it in teaching, research, MDP's, institution building or Career Services. The student of the programme is the centre of all activities that take place at its' campus. For three decades, IPM has believed in forging strong symbiotic relations with industry and services. International linkages are of immense importance for building a worldwide perspective. Cultural diversity in classrooms is the hallmark of IPM. A few years at IPM instills basic but essential values of discipline, punctuality, commitment and teamwork. Industry comes to the Institute not only during placement season but as teachers, guest speakers, projects, admissions, curricula designing. IPM believes that economic growth must be accompanied with social equity and offers scholarships to deserving candidates, particularly from North East India.

Business Director

■ Suparsa Aviation –

"Suparsa" is the name for Garuda (Pali; Suparda) meaning "well-winged, having good wings". Suparsa Aviation Services Pvt. Ltd., based in Gurgaon - Delhi -NCR region, India, offers admission, testing and placement services for aspiring pilots, represents some of the best pilot training schools across the globe, and offers commercial pilot training & flight instructor training. Suparsa has representative offices across the country and regional office in Chennai. Suparsa's partnering schools are : Orlando Flight Training, USA • Aeroflite Aviation Corporation, Philippines • Phoenix East Aviation, USA • ANAC, Australia. Every month around 20 students depart to different schools from Suparsa. The mere mention of a pilot makes the mind drift towards the glamour that is attached to the job. In reality, becoming a pilot remains one of the greatest challenges. It is a sheer test of attitude and aptitude combined. "A clear understanding of the entire process is crucial in order to serve the aspirant in the right manner and that's what Suparsa Aviation majors in" Suparsa is one of the few organisations in India that holds screening tests for students which help in choosing the right candidates. The tests also make the student realise what exactly he wants to choose; giving an apt introduction to the standards he is expected to meet. The screening test is a standardised psychometric analysis for reliable and valid measures. Suparsa has started classes for pre-basic, DGCA conversion and RT Training Course from April 2008. These courses are conducted every month by experts having more than three decades of experience in aviation training. This is to support the students to get their CPL in India. Suparsa further helps them in placement with Airlines. With human safety as it's primary goal and it's strong belief in "Choose well – Train Well" Suparsa believes in preparing future aviation leaders – says Lalitha Krishnamurthy – Business Director.
