"There will soon come a time when every district in the country will have an amusement park of its own," says Rajen Shah, President, Indian Association of Amusement Parks and Industries (IAAPI) on the prospects of this industry.

The amusement parks in Kolkata have definitely added more colours to the canvas of the city. A visit to the amusement park in the city — Aquatica, Nicco Park, Swabhum, Science City, Millennium Park, Nalban Boating Complex and Clown Town — will provide you with the best of the excitements. Simply plunge into the excitement of the adventurous activities, joy rides, enthralling water rides and many more in these parks. These parks are somewhat cut off from the city but are brilliantly connected to different parts with some of the best communication facilities.

Architect Saurabh Chakravorty is in love with Aquatica. "The main attraction of Aquatica is the Aqua Wave Pool which gives you the feeling of spending time at a sea beach. I really enjoy the artificial waves of this pool. The water is recycled after every hour to keep it clean. Apart from this, I also enjoy the Cyclone Pool also known as Tornado, and Aqua Dance which is the water discotheque," he says.

The famous adventure hubs in Delhi NCR include — Adventure Island, Noida E-city, Future Bowl, Fun & Food Village, and 32nd Milestone. Being in awe of Adventure Island, Shruti Agarwal, a college student, says, "It's no exaggeration to say that Amoeba is a digital paradise for one and all. It has everyone from toddlers to adults furiously keying into the addictive consoles before them. While some sit on the edge of their seats steering through grand prix tracks, others are busy fighting enemy planes. Promoted by HML Leisures, Amoeba in Gurgaon's Metropolitan Mall is the last word in digital gaming.
