

RAJNIKANTH

59, ACTOR (23)

BIG BOSS

BECAUSE as the title of his blockbuster film, Sivaji: The Boss, said, he is Super Star Rajni. Because when his film releases, it is not an event but an earthquake. Because while one half of Tamil Nadu wants him to join politics, the other half (comprising mostly politicians) wants him to keep acting. Because even after turning a grandfather recently he can still do stunts every action hero in Bollywood wants to imitate.

REAL ESTATE WATCH:

Is proud of his Kelambakkam farmhouse.

IDEA OF A GIFT:

His daughter Soundarya's Rs 40-crore animation film, Sultan: The Warrior, that releases this year.

COOL NEW TOYS:

The ones his grandson, by elder daughter Aishwarya, plays with.

FAVOURITE VACATION

SPOT: The Himalayas. He packs only a toothbrush for any trip.

ONLY HE COULD HAVE GOT M. KARUNANIDHI AND JAYALALITHAA TO HIS PREMIERE.

LALIT MODI

44, VICE-PRESIDENT, BCCI (NEW)

CASHING CRICKET

BECAUSE he is the man behind the Indian Premier League (IPL), a six-week T20 tournament that could change world cricket forever. Because his ambition to turn Indian cricket into a multi-billion-dollar property in the league of European soccer is matched by his ability to sign big deals—at last count, the IPL deals were worth $1.8 billion (Rs 7,200 crore). Because BCCI's revenues have increased seven-fold—the deals signed by it for the Indian team since 2005 are worth $777 million (Rs 3,108 crore). Because no one in cricket wants to be on his wrong side.

EVIDENCE OF OBSESSIVE

BEHAVIOUR: Signing up for a Google alert for his own name.

SHOULD BE EMBARRASSED

ABOUT: While unveiling IPL, he welcomed audiences to the "Indian Cricket League".

LITTLE KNOWN FACT:

At the World T20 semi-final in Australia, Andrew Symonds threatened to hit him as he celebrated India's victory too enthusiastically.
