AUTO MOTIVE

BECAUSE the market capitalisation of his listed companies has now touched Rs 30,000 crore. Because his unlisted companies, including the insurance business, are now valued at Rs 28,000 crore. Because his dream of a people's car and a goods carrier is taking shape with the proposed alliance with Renault. Because he has settled the succession issue between sons Rajiv and Sanjiv with the proposal for a demerger of the auto and finance businesses. Because the group is as good as a bank, with Rs 8,000 crore in cash reserves. Because he continues to be his forthright self, speaking his mind without fear or favour.

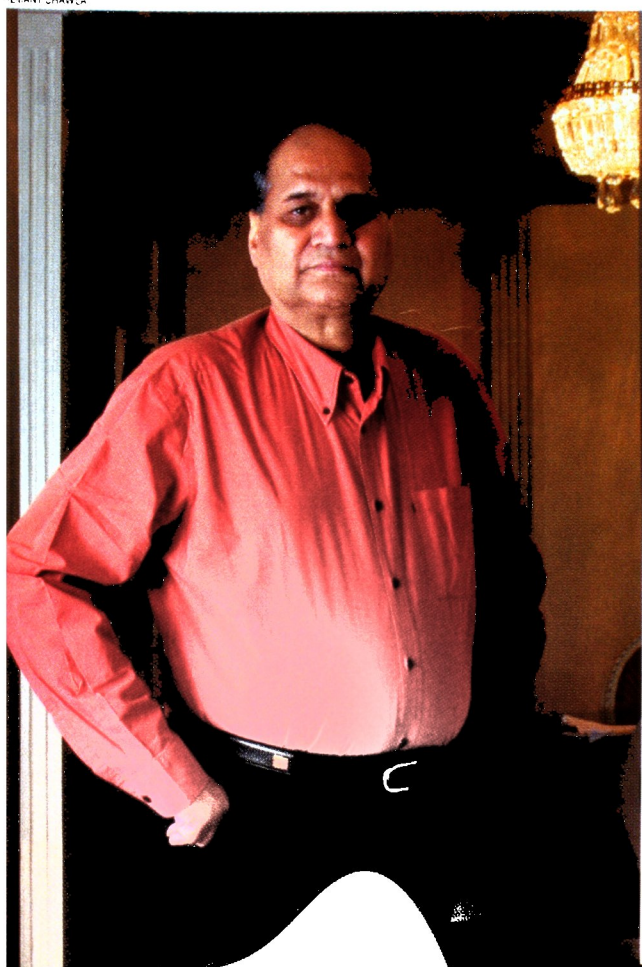

PROUD OF BEING: On the International Advisory Committee of Brookings Institution and India's face at World Economic Forum, Davos, since 1979.

ROAD AHEAD: Bajaj

Electricals and Mukund Ltd will go to brothers Shekhar and Neeraj.

MASS FOCUS

BECAUSE the father-son duo has made newspaper reading a habit in places it had not existed before. Because the group has a presence in 28 per cent of the country. Because they have redefined newspaper readership by making it super local. Because last year, the Bhaskar group launched 12 new editions, of which three were of their English daily DNA in Pune, Ahmedabad and Surat, the remaining of the flagship brand Dainik Bhaskar in cities like Amritsar, Jalandhar, Ludhiana and Patiala, and of the Gujarati paper Dairya Bhaskar into Bhuj, Jamnagar, Surat and Rajkot. Because serving the new-age paper has helped them take their advertising revenues from Rs 500 crore in 2007 to over Rs 680 crore now.

THE ROAD AHEAD: The group will expand its editions from the current 40 to over 50. A public listing is also on the anvil.

VACATION SPOT: Every year it is a new destination for the entire family—the father, three sons and their wives. Last year it was Bali.

FOOD FAD: Being a diabetic, Ramesh restricts himself to dal, roti and subzi.
