

Seams Just Right

Designing clothes for the ramp and recently reality shows has been her field of expertise. But Arshiya Fakhri Eappen is now looking at the big picture. The designer will for the first time design clothes for two real characters in the animated film Maruti Mera Dost. "It's about a Rajasthani household and has been shot in a haveli," says the 32-year-old, who's made the men wear jodhpuris and women wear saris in the film. Incidentally, this is the film with which Chandrachud Singh makes his comeback. We'll wait and watch.

OUT OF THE BOW

Bow Barracks Forever sunk without a trace in India but it seems to have found an audience internationally. Lillete Dubey, who played the central character of Emily Lobo, was recently chosen as the Best Actress at the Madrid International Film Festival. "I didn't even know the film had been entered," says the actress who was unaware of winning the award. "I was in Pune, getting ready for a play, when the director called me." Perfect example of a pleasant surprise, we think.

PUJA IN MEXICO

For their third wedding anniversary, German supermodel Heidi Klum and her singer hubby Seal, have an unusual guest on the list. Pandit Shailesh Tripathi from Varanasi has been invited to Mexico to attend the May 10 bash. When the couple was temple-visiting last year, Tripathi had guided them around the city and had also conducted a special Ganga Puja for them. "They were highly impressed with Indian traditions and culture," says the priest. Talk about divine intervention.

Reel Action

He made news when he quit IPS three years ago, citing widespread corruption. And now, Y.P. Singh will be the first officer to turn director with an adaptation of his book Carnage by Angels. "It'll be the first non-action police film, with plenty of music. It's about relationships in the world of uniform," he says. The cop-turned-lawyer, having been signed on by Farooq Nadiadwala for a pre-production fee of Rs 1 crore, won't be casting Bollywood stars.
