

GIMME MORE: Shah Rukh created every aspect of the Knight Riders himself

■ By Kaveree Bamzai

It's 3.03 a.m. Shah Rukh Khan, donning a white Gucci vest over his six-year-old ripped jeans, his Louis Vuitton backpack discarded on the sofa, is just getting ready to hit the dance floor with the Kolkata Knight Riders. It's been a long day but you wouldn't know it. He's just got in from London in the afternoon after unveiling his wax statue at Paris's Musee Grevin. The airlines has lost his luggage on the way. Stopping at Mumbai for an hour, he's hopped on to his friend and Videocon MD Venugopal Dhoot's Cessna Citation, come to Kolkata for the match between the Knight Riders and Mumbai Indians, cheered his losing team, done several television interviews, and even gifted a Compaq notebook to each Knight Rider. Tomorrow is already being planned today, as his secretary Karuna Badwal informs him of the 2 p.m.-shoot for Star Plus's new show Kya Aap Paanchvi Pass Se Tez Hain? Eighteen episodes of the show will be shot over the next few days

BANDEEP SINGH