

Thiru MUKUT MITHI
His Excellency, the Lt. Governor

Government of Puducherry

Thiru N. RANGASAMY
Hon'ble Chief Minister

Puducherry Government - Leading by Example

Yes...he's done it again! In a nation where anti-incumbency is the order of the day, where public displeasure with the Government soars at the drop of a hat, one man has done the unthinkable....he has earned the respect, love, trust, and support of his party and his people for the second consecutive term! He is none other than Mr. N. Rangasamy...the Hon'ble Chief Minister of Puducherry. Mr. Rangasamy's re-election is a classic example of what honesty of thought, clarity in action, a people-friendly approach to Governance, and foresight in planning and development can help a person and a Government accomplish. Under his able leadership, the Union Territory of Puducherry has witnessed incredible growth in almost every department, and people from all strata of society have stood to gain from the welfare measures introduced by his Government.

The "Puducherry Agriculture Workers Welfare Society" set up by the Government of Puducherry strives to improve the lot of agricultural workers by implementing unique welfare schemes for them. In an era where "Information is Power", the 'Uzhavar Udhaviyagam' instituted by the government in 33 villages is a boon to agriculturists, as it provides them with quick and easy access to information.

Besides agriculture, the innovative educational schemes announced by the Government have greatly benefited a large number of students. The "Sri Rajiv Gandhi Breakfast Scheme" and the "Free Milk Scheme" implemented by the Government, in keeping with the vision and mission of the much-revered leader Perunthalaivar Kamarajar, has enabled nearly 1.25 lakh poor students to keep their mind and body healthy. In addition, text books, note books, bicycles, raincoats, umbrellas and a variety of other educational paraphernalia are distributed free to school students. Moreover, with help from CENTAC, the Government also reimburses the tuition fees of students from all professional colleges, thereby enabling under-privileged students to aspire for academic excellence.

Apart from education, infrastructure growth has also been a focal point for the Government. Accordingly, the year 2007-2008 saw the Government sanction the establishment of 8000 domestic power connections, 2000 street lights, and 35 farm pump sets. Furthermore, to make rural transport comfortable, the rural link roads have now been relaid to resemble the National Highways. Moreover, to tackle the perennial water problems, the Government has announced a "Ground Water Recharging Project", which includes construction of bed dams.

Rehabilitation and desalinating of lakes have been completed.

Public health is an integral component of public welfare. Therefore, to enable its people to lead healthy, happy lives, the Government of Puducherry has introduced an Individual Health Card for the first time in India. Moreover, since this Government is very sensitive to the needs of women and children, it plans to open shortly a 700-bed fully equipped hospital just for them. A Government Medical College, and a Super Speciality Hospital in Karaikal are also on the cards.

In addendum, various welfare schemes have been proposed by the Government for the upliftment of the downtrodden. Free rice to the tune of 10 Kg is distributed to BPL families every month, along with essential groceries at fair rates. Efforts are underway to cover 17,500 BPL families under a scheme for providing free LPG connection with stove. The grant extended under the "Perunthalaivar Kamarajar Housing Scheme" has been increased to Rs. 1 lakh from Rs. 50,000. Also, a new scheme has been proposed to provide monthly assistance to educated unemployed youth. For the benefit of the disabled, 15 Kg of rice, 50% of fuel subsidy, and 3% reservation in education and employment are provided.

And the list goes on! But, while on the subject of the achievements of the Puducherry Government, one cannot overlook the contributions of the various Government departments. These departments have worked hand-in-glove with their visionary leader, Mr. N. Rangasamy, to breathe life into his dreams.

