

60 YEARS OF FREEDOM

INDIAN WINE

Nashik MAHARASHTRA

A glass apart

A corporate executive quits his job, converting his family's fruit orchards into a vineyard—and a new Indian wine is born

■ By Aditi Pai

At a recent blind tasting session at a suburban Mumbai hotel, wine experts rated the Reveilo Cabernet Sauvignon as a premium Western wine. "Deep, dark red with aromas of leather, spice, and dark fruit," remarked connoisseurs. A flutter filled the hall when they realised that it was from a winery in Nashik—India's answer to Napa Valley. "It proves that we have managed to achieve the quality we have always strived for," gushes an elated Yatin Patil. He is the 33-year-old promoter and director of

FRUITY TWIST:
Patil at his vineyard in Nashik