

"LARENDRA BISH"

PAST IMPERFECT

Yesteryear actor Vyjayanthimala's autobiography, Bonding: A Memoir, has left many hot under the collar. Raj Kapoor's leading lady has angered the filmmaker's clan by stating that her alleged relationship with Kapoor, during the making of Sangam, was just a publicity stunt. Even as Rishi Kapoor and actor Saira Banu have spoken out against her, brother Randhir says old age might have affected the dancer's memory, "Her autobiography should be sold in the fiction category." Masala memoir, anyone?

"Raj Kapoor didn't need any publicity. Obviously, she does."

—RANDHIR KAPOOR

NEHA NATH

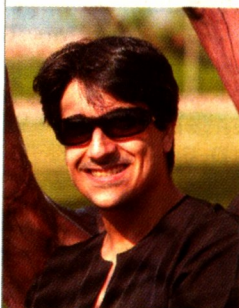

In Good Taste

Rashmi Uday Singh likes having the world on her plate. The former senior deputy commissioner of income tax is all set to make her TV comeback on Headlines Today with Foodie Fundas With Rashmi, a show shot extensively in Europe, the US, Udaipur and Goa. "It combines all my four passions—food, TV, adventure and learning," says the World Gourmand Award winner, who will travel across three continents to explore the Champagne district of France, the German Oktoberfest and discover the best vegetarian restaurants in Paris. Bon appetit, we say.

Play Right

Shiamak Davar is going back to his roots. Even as the much-feted dancer-choreographer returns to the stage to produce Bombay Black, a new drama written by Canada-based playwright Anosh Irani, he insists he never quit theatre. "My shows are all about theatre," says the 45-year-old, happy to be promoting new talent. "If I ever act, the role would have to be substantial and strong," he adds. Encore, please.

RAMP RETURN

This catwalk favourite is back from Russia, following a failed marriage and the birth of her son Mark. Model Alesia Raut is all set to resume her modelling career and will take to the catwalk at the forthcoming Lakme Fashion Week. "I started working the day after I landed," says the 25-year-old leggy lass, overjoyed to be back on the catwalk after a two-year sabbatical. "I've changed my look and my walk and am excited for everyone to see the new Alesia," she says. This comeback should be a cake-walk.

Freshness has a new colour.

NEW

