TAKING CREDIT

The glamorous Gauri Khan might have played coy the first time around, but Farah Khan was determined to have the producer of Om Shanti Om walk the red carpet in her trademark end-credit song. So the stylish Mrs Shah Rukh Khan will step into the limelight and make a fleeting appearance. "We had to do without her during Main Hoon Na, but the song was appreciated and now she knows what she's getting into. Shah Rukh also persuaded her," says Farah, readying for the November release of her blockbuster. This appearance will indeed be very special.

BETTER HALVES

Ajay and Kajol don't believe in giving up. Even while not all their films have sent the cash registers ringing and their latest film You, Me and Hum is yet to be completed, Kajol is ready to romance hubby in Toonpur Ka Super Hero, a 3D film with animation. Ajay, who will play himself says, "When asked to choose a co-star, I obviously chose Kajol." No surprises there.

A New Note

He might have missed out on composing for Sanjay Leela Bhansali's much-awaited Saawariya, but noted music composer Ismail Darbar, 43, is now ready to turn singer with his new album Tere Pyaar Mein. "My debut album as a singer is about me and my God. There is no one else between us," says Darbar, who has composed and sung all the numbers and has even roped in wife Ayesha to write a song. Now let's hope this reality show judge's album gets the audience votes.

Dance with Me

Supermodel Tapur Chatterjee, 28, is putting on her dancing shoes for the second season of celebrity dance show Jhalak Dikhhla Jaa, and this despite zero professional training. "My friends have never seen me dance," she laughs. But Tapur is letting fashion take a backseat and "paying attention like a diligent student". Pitted against Rohit Roy and Sandhya Mridul, she is ready with some slick moves of her own.
