

INTEGRATING KNOWLEDGE ACROSS BUSINESS FUNCTIONS

In order to be competitive and attractive to employers, students nowadays must continue to raise their global awareness. They need to take a 'World View'.

They need to understand the nuances and subtleties of different value systems, cultural norms, traditions, customs, perspectives and business practices. They then must be able to integrate knowledge, and come to an effective and practical plan of action.

Increased global awareness, teamwork, communication skills, and ethical decision-making, are qualities that are often neglected in business schools worldwide. Not at Hult. In addition to mastering the critical tools of analysis that are fundamental to the core disciplines of management studies, we stress the importance of synthesizing and integrating knowledge across business functions and academic disciplines.

Located in Boston, Dubai, London, and Shanghai, Hult International Business School is a student-centered, teaching-oriented, global organization, which is grounded in the practice of management. We are preparing our full-time MBA students for positions of responsible global leadership. In the 21st century metropolis of Dubai where I am fortunate enough to be the academic dean, we represent a 21st century business school which is at the cutting edge of global education.

We want our MBAs to be effective communicators, ethical decision-makers, and respected leaders of successful businesses. We firmly believe that it is crucial for individuals, firms, and economies to learn continuously how to collaborate as well as compete; how to lead as well as follow; how to innovate as well as conserve; and how to contribute as well as benefit.

Our outstanding faculty members come from around the world, and are not only highly qualified scholars but include experienced practitioners of business management and professionals in 'Action Learning'.

The Hult MBA - a one-year, full-time, intensive and global experience - is the opportunity of a lifetime to learn, reflect, absorb, stretch, network with friends and cultures from around the world, re-tool, repack, and reinvent oneself. Our students are preparing for a lifetime of learning and personal development, so that they can attain their professional goals, make a positive difference to global civil society and discourse, and thereby achieve true contentment.
