

ulture the year of confrontation

Pap, Pulp and PYROTECHNICS

It was the clash of generations, of genres, even of genus of ideas. Celebrities crashlanded on earth, on tv news channels, in tabloids, and on every two-bit talent hunt, making gawkers of us all.

■ By Kaveree Bamzai

In a year in which celebrity attained ubiquity, the most defining image was perhaps that of the imposing gates of Prateeksha, firmly shut in the face of sweltering camera crews, fixated fans and an assorted audience from across the country snacking on a never-before-24x7 coverage of celestial happenings. The Bachchans' Mumbai home, venue of the wedding of the year, marked the high tide of celebrity coverage.

