SPENDING DIARY

A leaf from the notebook of a father, confounded by his teen son's demands but unable to say No...

JANUARY
Rs 8,500

BRAND TO BOOT: Just a month back, got him Adidas F 30 boots. Now he wants the Nike Ronaldinho boots—says he doesn't like the blades and wants studs on the soles.

NOVEMBER
Rs 8,900

FOOTIE FETISH: Suspect he has a contact at the sports shop. How else does he get to know about new arrivals? The ManU colours and an official ball sets me back by Rs 9,000.

COOL DEVICE: My boy is pleased as punch. His mom has bought the Apple video iPod while on an office trip to the US. Would have cost a fortune here. No skin off my back.

AUGUST
$250

MUSIC MANIA: Shouldn't have walked by the Bose outlet. He walked in, I followed and ended up paying Rs 8,000 for a digital headphone. The Rs 4,000 earphone was an impulse buy.

JUNE
Rs 12,000

MAY
Rs 1.3 lakh

WORLDLY WISE: Board exams are over and my boy is bored. Wants to visit his aunt in the UK for 15 days. A pocket pincher. Let him go anyway.

LET'S ROCK: Iron Maiden are coming to Bangalore and he has to be there. That's fine but he also wants me to cough up six grand for a tattoo on his upper arm. Kids!

MARCH
Rs 31,000
