The image is created to demonstrate project GSK.

Gramin Suvidha Kendras (GSKs) are an example of MCX's innovative applications of technology to help bring about a more equitable distribution of wealth in the rural commodity markets. Through GSKs, spot prices and future price signals for various agri commodities are displayed on blackboards or ticker panels powered by Financial Technologies outside post offices, so that farmers know the correct prices of their produce and can prevent their exploitation.
