Follow Islam enriched by local culture and revel in Sufi traditions like music and mysticism. One of the most tolerant and less dogmatic faces of Islam.

The battle for the hearts and minds of Indian Muslims reaches an explosive phase

The Radical Sweep

■ By Sandeep Unnithan and Uday Mahurkar

When Safdar Nagori was a 15-year-old teenager studying at the Ujjain Polytechnic, he came in contact with Hafiz Nehmatullah Nadvi, the imam of Ujjain's Fateh Masjid and a known leader of the Jamaat-e-Islami Hind (JIH). Nadvi individually counselled the young son of the police officer from Madhya Pradesh and very soon, Nagori was inducted into the radical Students Islamic Movement of India (SIMI). When he was arrested in Indore in March, Nagori, 38, held a
