

ENSURING FOOD FOR ALL

...so that no one goes to bed empty stomach.

Chhattisgarh Government set a milestone with the launch of the most ambitious scheme on April 2007, Chief Minister Food Security Scheme (Mukhyamantri Khadanya Sahayata Yojana), to provide two square meals per day to every poor family in the state. The Chief Minister of Chhattisgarh, Dr. Raman Singh, once wrote that when he was a kid he saw that people looked emaciated as many of them went to bed hungry. Later, as a practicing doctor, he treated cases mainly related to malnutrition and diseases caused by under-nourishment. It strengthened his resolve to do something about Food for All. Chhattisgarh has some of the richest mineral deposits under the earth and the best natural forests. He thought that there was not much point 'living on a rich land but on an empty stomach'. He
