SCALING HEIGHTS

Deeya Suzannah Bajaj has gone where no 14-year-old Indian has—literally. The Shriram School, Gurgaon, student was the youngest member of a team of five, which participated in an Indo-American kayaking expedition along the west coast of Greenland, the first time an Indian team has gone on a sea kayaking expedition in the sub-zero waters of the Arctic Ocean. But for this adventure sports lover, this is not the first time she has set foot in choppy waters. A kayaking, swimming and skiing enthusiast, this certified junior scuba diver recently went on a hike to Mount Cosciusko, Australia. This one's clearly on a high.

Leading at Last

She's been lurking on the sidelines, surprising people with her acting nuggets. But after years of playing second fiddle, Raima Sen has bagged her first Bollywood film in a lead role. The actor, best known for her acts in Chokher Bali, Honeymoon Travels Pvt Ltd and Parineeta, will be going the whole 70-mm hog in Sachin Yardi's CKompany. Sen plays bossy sister to the film's don Tusshar Kapoor and follows up her solo act with the lead role in Aparna Sen's The Japanese Wife. Only if she gave sister Riya some tips.

NEW SHINE

She's Kashmiri by birth and grew up in Scotland. Ferena Wazeir had no idea a chance meeting with ace lensman Farrokh Chothia would turn into quite the joyride. The 23-year-old blue-eyed girl has landed herself three Hindi film roles. "The first film I was offered was Soni Razdan's adaptation of Difficult Daughters, but that got delayed," she says. Rumours of romance with Randeev Hooda aside, Wazeir plays the actor's friend in Ketan Mehta's Rang Rasiya and in Raj Kanwar's Sadiyaan, slips into the romantic lead. She has been snapped up by director Danis Tanovic as well. Let the show begin.

SARANG SENA

Director Speak

It's vicarious, it's intrusive but a TRP topper—a talk show with stars, of course. And our directors, having moved from behind the camera to in front of it, are enjoying coffee with their buds. Karan Johar set the screen ablaze with his rapid fire, Sajid Khan is adding colour with his Superstars and now, director Rituparno Ghosh is chatting away on his Bengali show, Ghosh and Company, which is set to air on Star Bangla. Lights, camera, rapid fire, we say.
