

Welfare measures for landless farm workers:

In order to provide security and various benefits to landless farm workers Shri Shivraj Singh Chouhan has introduced a novel Mukhya Mantri Mazdoor Suraksha Yojana. Under this, benefits like maternity leave, scholarship to their wards, assistance in marriage and medical assistance are being extended to them. Over ten lakh photo identity cards have already been issued to eligible beneficiaries under this scheme. A total of 30 lakh landless farm workers would finally benefit from this scheme. The facilities include payment of maternity expenses and wages of 6 weeks, payment of 2 weeks wages under paternity leave, payment of scholarship to the children of labourers studying in Class 1 to post graduate classes for all the courses, award of cash prize to students securing 1st Division in Class 5 and onward examinations, Rs 6000 to girls under the Marriage Assistance Scheme and other benefits under Group Insurance Scheme.

Empowering women:

CM Shri Shivraj Singh Chouhan is keen on empowering women. For this he has introduced a number of well conceived schemes. Aware that in rural areas the girl child is still considered a liability, he seeks to spread the message that a girl child is a boon, and not a burden. They should not be discriminated against. At his initiative, the government has implemented schemes like Ladli Laxmi Yojana, Gaon Ki Beti Yojana, Kanyadan Yojana, Janani Suraksha Yojana, Janani Express Yojana to take care of the girl child from the day of her birth till marriage and later till she delivers a second child.

Under Ladli Laxmi Yojana, a National Savings Certificate is purchased in the name of a girl at the time of her birth. More importantly, the scheme has been linked to their education. On admission in VIth, the girl is a cash amount of Rs 2000 and on admission in IXth, Rs 4000 is doled out. When she gets through Xth examination she would get Rs 200 per month to meet the expenditure on education of XIth and XIIth classes. When she turns 21, she would get Rs 1,18,000. To avoid complications of financial centralization at state level, registration would also be done at district level as per the new amended scheme. So far, 60,000 girls have benefited under the scheme. The scheme is so appealing that even the Delhi state govt. and the Central Govt. has adopted this.

Again at the initiative of CM Shri Shivraj Singh Chouhan, a Mukhya Mantri Kanyadan Yojana has been implemented. Marriages of over 60,000 girls have already been solemnized under the scheme. The facility is provided to girls of every section and community. On April 14th the largest ever mass marriage ceremony was organized in Indore on Ram Navmi where 600 couples tied the knot. The CM personally blessed the newly wed couples and gifts worth Rs. 10,000 were given to each couple.

There is more. A Janani Suraksha Yojana has been launched to promote institutional deliveries to bring down MMR and IMR. Meant for women of BPL families, assistance of Rs. 1400 is given to a pregnant woman for delivery in a hospital. Special care has been taken to deal with the health problems of girls and women. Medicines are also provided free of cost. The scheme has led to a remarkable increase in the rate of institutional deliveries from 26 to 70 %.

To increasing awareness about proper care of expectant and nursing mothers and providing nutrition to them and children, a number of innovative schemes have been introduced in Anganwadis. These are Goodbharai, Annasparsh, Janamdivas, Balika Suraksha Yojana and Matra Suraksha Card.

To lower maternity death rate, a Janani Express Yojana has been introduced. Under this, round the clock transportation facility is available to expectant mothers in rural and urban areas so that they can be rushed to hospitals and medical institutions for delivery. During last 2 ½ years since its inception more than 10,00,000 women of BPL families have benefited under it.

Indeed, the govt. under the dynamic leadership of Shri Shivraj Singh Chouhan has done a lot to uplift infrastructural and social sectors. The changes are there for all to see.
