Healthy Way to Save Tax

Today's fast paced life is taking its toll. A growing number of Indians are falling prey to lifestyle-related diseases and illnesses at a much younger age than ever before. Diseases such as diabetes, high blood pressure and other cardio-vascular diseases, which were earlier considered "old-age" diseases, have now begun to show up in people who are in their 30s.

The number of heart patients in India is expected to grow from 1.5 million to 1.9 million per year over 2004-08. Over 85% of hospitalizations are in five areas: cardio, cancer, accidents, acute infections and maternity. Cancer and heart diseases alone will contribute 40% of overall hospitalization expenditure in the coming years. An average Indian's healthcare expenses are expected to rise by 12% per year.

The advances in health care technologies along with increasing health care costs have made recovery a long and expensive process. It is therefore imperative to make adequate provisions for medical emergencies. Of the various health insurance covers available, critical illness covers—which pay out a lumpsum on diagnosis of a critical illness—not only help you meet treatment costs but can also be used to fund indirect costs and loss of income due to the illness. Moreover it allows you to plan and choose your level of care without worry-
