

Anders Fogh Rasmussen

Prime Minister of Denmark

Anders Fogh Rasmussen was born 26 January 1953. He is married to Mrs. Anne-Mette Rasmussen with whom he has three children.

In 1978 Mr. Rasmussen graduated in Economics from the University of Aarhus. After graduation he worked as a consultant with The Danish Federation of Small and Medium-Sized Enterprises until 1987, when he was offered the position as Minister for Taxation. In 1990, he became Minister of Economic Affairs.

Mr. Rasmussen has always been strongly dedicated to the Danish Liberal Party. While studying, he was President of the Liberal Party's Youth Organisation (VU) for two years, and since 1978, he has been Member of Parliament for the party.

In 1998, he became President of the Liberal Party, and when the Liberal Party three years later, in 2001, won the elections, Mr. Anders Fogh Rasmussen became the Prime Minister of Denmark. Mr. Rasmussen is currently undergoing his third term as Prime Minister.

H.E. Prime Minister Anders Fogh Rasmussen on his official visit to India from 3-8 February 2008 will discuss the avenues for increased cooperation under the umbrella of a Joint Commission to be signed during the visit.

These will include:

- Political cooperation on global issues, such as combating climate change and terrorism.
- Establishing optimal framework conditions for our commercial and economic relations
- Cooperation on Science and technology.
- Cooperation on Environment and Energy.
- Promoting further exchanges of students and researchers.

In addition, he will discuss regional and international issues of mutual concern, including climate change.

