

THE LUXURY TABLE

PRIVATE DINING EXPERIENCE CHEF'S STUDIO, MUMBAI

Business meetings or private moments with loved ones—the city's crème-de-la-crème click their Riedel flutes in style here. Five-star restaurants no longer provide the kind of exclusivity and privacy that the Chef's Studio at the Taj Mahal Palace and Tower offers. The aesthetically-designed single-table dining area spells luxury and elegance. The crockery is Versace, the glassware Riedel, the champagne the best from around the world and to round it all off, an eight-course spread created just for you. "I wanted to showcase the actual art of cooking here," says Chef Hemant Oberoi, who opened his private studio a year ago. The room can host six guests and overlooks an attached kitchen and grill, where your gourmet meal is whipped up by the chefs as you sip on your Moët Chandon. Everything for the evening is tailor-made—you can even choose the quantity of spices in your food! "The gourmet food, décor, presentation and the Chef's personal attention to every detail make it a truly unforgettable experience. It's a great way to spend a leisurely evening," says Niraj Bajaj, CMD of the Mukand Group and a Studio regular. The Zodiac Grill and Wasabi top the list of favourites here, but every wish you make is always granted. Oberoi recollects whipping up Dal Makhani and Chicken Tikka in the midst of Camembert Dariole and Beluga caviar. "We do everything that's in our capacity, that's the joy of cooking." An evening will cost upwards of Rs 60,000 for up to six guests. But if you stumbled upon the most exquisite fruit caviar on your visit to Spain and yearn for that experience again, count on the Studio to deliver it to you.
