TRAIN JOURNEY | PALACE ON WHEELS

THE PALACE ON WHEELS IS SO POPULAR THAT IT STANDS BOOKED FOR THE NEXT TWO YEARS.

Rajasthan in winter is a magical place and the rising number of tourists testifies to its popularity. On the Palace on Wheels, luxury, ambience, convenience and a well-planned itinerary combine to give those with time and money a perfect journey through the state. The train already stands booked for the next two years. Launched in 1982 with the aim of utilising the saloons belonging to erstwhile royals, it was a hit with foreigners, but really took off only in 1995, when it went broad gauge. Tourists board at Delhi for a week-long trip that covers Jaipur, Jaisalmer, Jodhpur, Ranthambore, Chittorgarh, Udaipur, Bharatpur and Agra. The train journeys at night and stops during the day for visits to places of interest. Specially-trained Rajasthan Tourism Development Corporation staff provide personalised service. The kitchen offers delectable Indian and continental cuisine, while the well-stocked bar adds to the ambience. In Rajasthan, royalty sells like nothing else, even if it is on wheels.
